

Courtney Stuart, VP, People, Identity Digital

Courtney leads the People Team at Identity Digital, where she designs and drives strategies that align with the company's vision and long-term goals. She has led the development and implementation of a companywide leadership program, championed inclusion and sustainability initiatives, and introduced innovative total rewards strategies. Her focus is on creating and delivering scalable, impactful People solutions while fostering a purpose-driven workplace culture.

She brings senior leadership experience across both tech and non-tech industries, with a background that includes everything from startups to publicly traded companies.

She earned her degree from Western Washington University and holds advanced certifications in Human Resources. Courtney lives in Seattle with her husband and enjoys traveling, exploring new cultures, and discovering local cuisines.
